Set mostly in the seedy beach bars, strip joints, and massage parlors of Biloxi, Mississippi, back before the casinos took over, Fay is a novel that only Larry Brown, the reigning king of Grit Lit, could have written.

Fay by Larry Brown | LibraryThing

Larry Brown is a two-time winner of the Southern Book Critics' Circle Award for his novels Joe (1992) and Father and Son (1997). In spite of these literary bona fides, and a creative-writing apprenticeship served under Barry Hannah at the University of Mississippi, it's hard not to feel that it was his seventeen years as a firefighter in Oxford that taught Brown what he knows about life.
