The Face of Another (Japanese: 顔のない男, Hepburn: Tanin no kao) is a 1966 Japanese New Wave film directed by Hiroshi Teshigahara and based on the 1964 novel of the same name written by Kōbō Abe.The story follows an engineer, Okuyama, whose face is severely burnt in an unspecified work-related accident and is given a new face in the form of a lifelike mask.

The Face of Another (film) - Wikipedia

The Face of Another is very introspective novel, as the narrator constantly has to face what his loss of face means: I can hardly believe that the face is so important to a man's existence. A man's worth should be gauged by the content of his work; possibly the convolutions of the surface of the brain have something to do with it, but his face certainly does not.
